I. SCOPE

This policy applies to all faculty, staff, students and visitors.

II. POLICY STATEMENT

Animals may pose a real or perceived threat to other members of the college community and may disrupt college activities. Consequently, animals brought into campus buildings present a liability for the college that is not normally associated with college operations. In order to promote a safe, non-threatening and healthy work environment for the members of the college community and to protect the college physical assets, Jones College prohibits animals in campus buildings. (Exceptions are defined in the Policy below.)

III. DEFINITIONS

Campus Building – Any college controlled and/or managed building and/or office on the main campus and extends to county centers.

Handler – Person accompanying an animal or responsible for bringing it to campus.

Pet – Any animal, including amphibians, mammals, reptiles and birds kept for pleasure or companionship.

Service Animal – As defined by the American with Disabilities Act (ADA), a service animal is any dog that is individually trained to do work or perform tasks for the benefit of a person with a disability, including a physical, sensory, psychiatric, intellectual, or other mental disability. Revised ADA regulations have provisions for a miniature horse qualifying as a service animal.

IV. POLICY

It is the policy of Jones College that animals are not permitted in college controlled and managed buildings, except for the animals listed in this policy and defined above.

Animals brought onto campus grounds must be on a leash, in a carrier, or in a cage. The handler is liable for all actions of the animal and must always be in total control and restraint of the animal. If an animal demonstrates threatening or aggressive behavior to members of the college community and guests (e.g., growling, scratching, biting), its handler may be directed to remove the animal from college property. The animal handler is responsible for cleaning up after their animal while on campus grounds and disposing waste.

Jones College permits the following animals in campus buildings:

1. Service Animals,
2. On-Duty police, search and rescue, detection or guard dogs,
3. Faculty and professional staff living in campus housing must request approval for having a pet within their assigned residence. The college has full discretion to grant or deny any such request.

Although the above permitted animals may enter campus buildings within the limitations described, these animals must be housebroken and remain under the control of their handler. The care or supervision of a permitted animal is solely the responsibility of its handler. The college reserves the right to exclude an exempt animal whose behavior is disruptive or pose a threat to the health or safety of others.

Anyone who brings an animal to the college will be held liable for any damages or injuries attributable to the behavior of the animal while on campus.
