Nationally Recognized Credentials

CBE provides multiple entry points into a number of Career and Technical Education (CTE) programs as a non-duplicative sequence of technical skill proficiency for programs aligned to nationally recognized credentials. Where possible, CBE provides a career pathway into credit-bearing postsecondary CTE programs and attainment of an industry recognized credential, certificate, diploma, or degree. In order for CBE participants to gain college credit, they must meet college admission standards for the career or technical program in which they are entering. For those who have successfully completed the nationally recognized credential, the participant will provide documented proof of a valid and current certification or credential. The credit will be awarded after the student completes one semester in the same program in which the CBE applies. To determine if a program offers CBE services, please refer to that particular program in the college catalog.

EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING

Jones College will award credit to veterans after an evaluation by the Office of Admissions and Records. As an accredited institution and a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges (SACSCOC), Jones College is the final authority for assessing and transcribing credit for military training and experience. Jones College's established policy for the assessment and transcription of credit for military training and experience supersedes ACE credit recommendations and those of any other organization. Award of credit for military training and experience is based upon official documentation. Acceptable documents for assessment of military training and experience are: Army/American Council on Education Registry Transcript (AARTS), and Sailor/Marine American Council on Education Registry Transcript (SMART) System.

Note: The Community College of the Air Force is a SACSCOC accredited school and therefore is treated as college transfer work.

It is the student's responsibility to obtain all records. Documentation becomes part of the student's academic record and becomes the property of Jones College. All documentation will be submitted to and evaluated by the Registrar's Office. The Registrar's Office will determine credit as being career, technical, or academic in nature as well as the number of credit hours awarded to the student. If a student plans on using credit toward the Associate of Applied Science degree, Technical Certificate, or Career Certificate, the student's primary instructor must complete any appropriate course substitution forms. Credit will not be placed on the student's transcripts until the student has completed 12 semester hours.
